U.S. Environmental Protection Agency Reviews Cleanup at the Ewan Property Superfund Site

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is conducting its fifth five-year review of the Ewan Property Superfund site, located in Shamong Township, New Jersey. This review seeks to confirm that EPA's cleanup plan for the groundwater at the site, documented in the 1989 Record of Decision remains protective of people's health and the environment. The selected cleanup plan includes constructing a full-scale groundwater extraction, treatment, and infiltration remedial system and six re-infiltration basins designed to establish hydraulic control of the contaminant plume (an area where contaminants disperse). All the activities have been completed. EPA will continue to monitor the site to ensure the cleanup plan remains effective.

A summary of the five-year review activities and an evaluation of the long-term protectiveness of the cleanup will be included in the five-year review report, scheduled to be completed in early 2024.

What is an EPA Five-Year Review?

The purpose of five-year reviews is to ensure that implemented cleanup plans at Superfund sites function as intended and continue to protect people's health and the environment. These regular reviews, which are required by federal law when contaminants remain at a site, include:

- Inspecting the site and cleanup technologies;
- Reviewing monitoring data, operating data, and maintenance records; and
- Determining if any new relevant regulatory requirements have been established since EPA's original cleanup decision was finalized.

When will EPA's Five-Year Review Report be available?

It is anticipated that the five-year review report will be available at the website noted below in early 2024.
